As The "Bravo" Company Executive Officer (Second in Command) Bob Ballard could have spent his time back in the relative safety of LZ Uplift....but the Tet Offensive was raging in Binh Dinh Province and Bob's proven bravery manifest itself once again as he was with his troops on the field of battle Southeast of Phu My on February 3rd.

Former Bravo Company Commander Dick Guthrie witnessed the fight from the air. The enemy had dug in along a vegetated hedge row north of the village of Vinh Nhon, and was delivering Rocket and small arms fire from several strong points. Guthrie, who had rotated to serve as the S-3 "Air" Officer for the Battalion, flew in with the C&C Chopper to evacuate the severely wounded officer who had been struck by a B40 rocket...which had not "armed". The rocket entered Bob Ballard's chest through the arm pit hole in his flack vest.

Bob Ballard died of his wounds without regaining consciousness. He was awarded the Silver Star for his actions. Ballard had previously been awarded Silver Stars for his actions in the Battle of Tam Quan on December 10, 1967, and during the An Lac(2) portion of the Battle of An Tinh on January 2nd, 1968.
