Roy Givens was killed in an accidental Hand Grenade explosion South of Bong Son in Binh Dinh Province. The 2nd Platoon, while under the operational control of the 2nd Battalion of the 503 Infantry, 173rd Airborne Brigade, had been receiving sniper fire from a native "Hooch" area North of their bridge security position each night. During daylight hours, friendly civilians sold sodas & beer from the same hooch area. Former 2/503 Officer, Bob Getz, related that he suggested that an ambush patrol be set to intercept the enemy snipers as they entered the hooch area at night. While preparing for the patrol, SP4 Henry Rhodes was demonstrating a new type of hand grenade which was supposed to have an extra safety feature which would allow you to return a pulled pin into the grenade. The grenade exploded killing Givens and wounding several others.
